

IWM RUSSELL 2000 SCANNER

SCAN (13:08 ET)

July 30, 2026 | 01:11 PM ET

9 setups identified | 2 A-Grade | 4 B-Grade | 3 C-Grade

Grade Summary

| A - Breakout Setup (2) | B - Strong Setup (4) | C - Watch List (3) |
|------------------------|----------------------|--------------------|
| ADPT                   | WHD                  | TMHC               |
| NHC                    | SPHR                 | PI                 |
|                        | SHOO                 | IDCC               |
|                        | PFS                  |                    |

All Setups

| Gr | Ticker | Company          | Theme             | Price    | Chg %  | Cap    | Float | RS/SPY | 52W Hi | Catalyst               |
|----|--------|------------------|-------------------|----------|--------|--------|-------|--------|--------|------------------------|
| A  | ADPT   | Adaptive Biotech | Biotech Diagnosti | $23.11  | +2.4%  | $3.7B | 126M  | +60.7  | 97%    | Post-earnings continua |
| A  | NHC    | National HealthC | Healthcare Servic | $229.31 | +0.3%  | $3.6B | 13M   | +29.6  | 99%    | Coiling into August 6  |
| B  | WHD    | Cactus, Inc. Cla | Energy Equipment  | $59.53  | +13.8% | $4.2B | 59M   | +3.9   | 93%    | Post-earnings surge fo |
| B  | SPHR   | Sphere Entertain | Live Entertainmen | $148.33 | +5.8%  | $5.3B | 25M   | +0.9   | 85%    | Intraday earnings reac |
| B  | SHOO   | Steven Madden, L | Consumer Discreti | $46.67  | +7.5%  | $3.4B | 71M   | +21.7  | 99%    | Intraday earnings reac |
| B  | PFS    | Provident Financ | Regional Banking  | $25.18  | +4.6%  | $3.3B | 126M  | +9.0   | 99%    | Breaking out to new 52 |
| C  | TMHC   | Taylor Morrison  | Homebuilding      | $72.45  | +0.4%  | $6.7B | 93M   | +13.9  | 100%   | Post-earnings continua |
| C  | PI     | Impinj, Inc.     | RFID / IoT        | $148.31 | +6.5%  | $4.5B | 30M   | -0.9   | 60%    | Breaking higher on 3.5 |
| C  | IDCC   | InterDigital, In | Patent Licensing  | $287.64 | +10.2% | $7.4B | 25M   | -6.0   | 70%    | Intraday earnings reac |

ADPT

Adaptive Biotechnologies Corporation

$23.11

+2.44%

RS vs SPY: +60.7%

A BREAKOUT

$3.7B Cap | 126M Float

Diagnostics & Research | Theme: Biotech Diagnostics | 52W Hi: 97% | Base Tight: 0.98 | Vol: 1.58x | RS/SPY: +60.7% | Above 20MA: YES | REPORTED

| Setup Metrics |              |
|---------------|--------------|
| Price         | $23.11      |
| Day Change    | +2.44%       |
| Mkt Cap       | $3.70B      |
| Float         | 126M sh      |
| RS vs SPY     | +60.7%       |
| 52W Hi Prox   | 97%          |
| Base Tight    | 0.98         |
| Vol vs Avg    | 1.58x        |
| RS Line Hi    | no           |
| Above 50MA    | -            |
| Fwd P/E       | -            |
| Short %       | -            |
| Days to Cover | -            |
| Inst. Own     | - (data lag) |

| Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Catalyst / Today's DriverPost-earnings continuation following July 29 report; stock breaking out from a textbook VCP (base_tight 0.98) after reporting. Forward catalyst: clinical trial data releases and potential partnership announcements for T-cell receptor sequencing platform over next 90 days, with next quarterly catalyst October 2026.                                                            |
| Business &amp; PositionAdaptive Biotechnologies is a commercial-stage biotech developing immune-driven clinical products using proprietary immune medicine platform that sequences T-cell and B-cell receptors. The company's clonoSEQ test is FDA-cleared for minimal residual disease assessment in blood cancers, positioning it as a category leader in immune-driven precision medicine diagnostics.       |
| Factor &amp; ThemeCore biotech theme with exposure to precision medicine and oncology diagnostics secular tailwind. The +60.7% 12-week outperformance vs SPY signals strong thematic momentum, likely driven by increased focus on personalized cancer treatment and immuno-oncology applications.                                                                                                              |
| Breakout SignalClose above $23.11 on vol >158% of 20d avg                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| InstitutionalVolume at 1.58x average shows institutional participation but not climactic buying. The 0.98 base_tight metric (textbook VCP coil) indicates classic accumulation pattern with supply absorbed into tight range. No recent insider buying is a minor negative, but the technical setup quality suggests smart money positioning ahead of the earnings print.                                       |
| EarningsReported                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Earnings ContextReported July 29 (yesterday). Historical beat/miss pattern and specific guidance not provided in data, but the post-earnings continuation and proximity to 52W highs suggest a beat or raised guidance. Next earnings expected late October 2026.                                                                                                                                               |
| Key RiskThesis invalid on a close back below $21.50 (the approximate base breakout level given prox_52w 96.8), or on any clinical trial failure or partnership termination announcement before next earnings.                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| AnalysisDespite RS line not at new high (the primary disconfirming evidence for A-grade), the combination of textbook 0.98 VCP base, +60.7% RS vs SPY (highest in the set), prox_52w 96.8, and post-earnings follow-through creates institutional-quality setup. The base coil is among the tightest possible, indicating absorption complete. Mixed macro reduces conviction slightly. Conviction: Medium-High |
| Signal: Close above $23.11 on vol &gt;158% of 20d avgVol vs Avg: 1.58x                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

| SETUP METRICS |              |
|---------------|--------------|
| Price         | $229.31     |
| Day Change    | +0.28%       |
| Mkt Cap       | $3.58B      |
| Float         | 13M sh       |
| RS vs SPY     | +29.6%       |
| 52W Hi Prox   | 99%          |
| Base Tight    | 1.63         |
| Vol vs Avg    | 1.59x        |
| RS Line Hi    | no           |
| Above 50MA    | -            |
| Fwd P/E       | -            |
| Short %       | -            |
| Days to Cover | -            |
| Inst. Own     | - (data lag) |

ANALYSIS

CATALYST / TODAY'S DRIVER

Coiling into August 6 earnings (7 days out) from a VCP-tight 1.63 base at 98.6% of 52W highs. The setup is classic pre-earnings accumulation in a strong RS leader (+29.6% vs SPY). Forward catalyst path: the August 6 print itself, plus potential Medicare rate updates and occupancy trend data through Q3 2026.

BUSINESS & POSITION

National HealthCare operates skilled nursing facilities, assisted living communities, and independent living centers across the Southeast U.S. With only 12.7M float, it's a thinly-traded but institutionally-owned operator in a consolidating senior care market, benefiting from demographic tailwinds and post-COVID occupancy recovery.

FACTOR & THEME

Healthcare services with demographic tailwind from aging population. The +29.6% 12-week outperformance suggests the market is repricing post-pandemic recovery in skilled nursing occupancy and margin normalization. Theme momentum remains positive as labor cost pressures ease and census improves.

BREAKOUT SIGNAL

Close above $229.31 on vol >159% of 20d avg

INSTITUTIONAL

Volume at 1.59x on minimal price change (+0.28%) indicates silent accumulation ahead of the August 6 print. The 1.63 base_tight reflects textbook VCP coiling. Insider activity shows 1 buy totaling $175K in last 60 days (insider_cluster=2), modest but positive. Small float (12.7M) amplifies institutional impact and creates potential for explosive moves on good news.

EARNINGS

EARNINGS IN 7D

EARNINGS CONTEXT

Earnings scheduled for August 6, 2026 (7 days out). Consensus and beat history not provided, but the tight base into the print and strong RS suggest expectations are constructive. Historical senior care operators have re-rated on occupancy and margin beats post-2024.

KEY RISK

Thesis invalid on a close below $220.00 (approximately 5% below current and likely base support), or on a guidance miss or occupancy decline at the August 6 report. Single-industry concentration in skilled nursing exposes to regulatory and reimbursement risk.

ANALYSIS

Textbook pre-earnings setup: VCP-tight 1.63 base, +29.6% RS, prox_52w 98.6, small float (12.7M), and insider buying present. The disconfirming evidence is lack of RS line at new high and mixed macro, but the 7-day forward catalyst (earnings) and technical quality override. Small float + earnings binary creates asymmetry. Conviction: High

Signal: Close above $229.31 on vol >159% of 20d avg

Vol vs Avg: 1.59x

| Setup Metrics |              |
|---------------|--------------|
| Price         | $59.53      |
| Day Change    | +13.78%      |
| Mkt Cap       | $4.15B      |
| Float         | 59M sh       |
| RS vs SPY     | +3.9%        |
| 52W Hi Prox   | 93%          |
| Base Tight    | 3.87         |
| Vol vs Avg    | 2.14x        |
| RS Line Hi    | no           |
| Above 50MA    | -            |
| Fwd P/E       | -            |
| Short %       | -            |
| Days to Cover | -            |
| Inst. Own     | - (data lag) |

| Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Catalyst / Today's Driver                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Post-earnings surge following July 29 report, riding sector momentum as Energy leads SPY by +10.7% this week. Forward catalyst path: WTI crude price action, U.S. rig count trends, and next earnings in late October 2026. Sector tailwind provides near-term momentum, but sustainability depends on energy macro remaining constructive.                                                     |
| Business & Position                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Cactus manufactures wellhead and pressure control equipment for oil and gas drilling, completing, and producing operations, primarily serving the Permian Basin. It holds a leading position in high-spec wellhead systems, benefiting from increased drilling activity and the shift to longer-lateral, high-intensity completions.                                                            |
| Factor & Theme                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Direct exposure to U.S. shale activity and energy capex cycle. Energy sector is the top performer this week (+10.7% vs SPY), creating favorable tape for the group. Theme momentum is accelerating on geopolitical supply concerns and stabilizing oil prices, though vulnerable to macro slowdown or oil price reversal.                                                                       |
| Breakout Signal                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Close above $59.53 on vol >214% of 20d avg                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Institutional                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Volume at 2.14x on a +13.78% earnings gap signals institutional buying, but the wide base_tight (3.87) and modest RS vs SPY (+3.9) suggest this is more of a sector-driven move than idiosyncratic strength. No insider buying in last 60 days. The setup benefits from sector rotation tailwind but lacks the accumulation profile of a sustained leader.                                      |
| Earnings                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Reported                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Earnings Context                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Reported July 29 (yesterday). The +13.78% gap suggests a strong beat and/or raised guidance, typical of energy equipment names levered to rig count and completion activity. Next earnings approximately late October 2026.                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Key Risk                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Thesis invalid on a close back below $52.50 (the approximate pre-earnings base, ~12% below current), or on any crude oil price decline below $70 WTI, which would signal demand concerns and capex cuts. Single-sector concentration exposes to energy commodity volatility.                                                                                                                  |
| Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Energy sector leadership (+0.5 grade boost consideration) and post-earnings gap create momentum, but the wide 3.87 base, modest +3.9 RS vs SPY, and lack of RS line new high prevent A-grade. The strongest disconfirming evidence: this is a sector trade, not an idiosyncratic leader-vulnerable to energy reversal. Mixed macro and commodity exposure reduce durability. Conviction: Medium |
| Signal: Close above $59.53 on vol >214% of 20d avg                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Vol vs Avg: 2.14x                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

| Setup Metrics |             |
|---------------|-------------|
| Price         | $148.33    |
| Day Change    | +5.82%      |
| Mkt Cap       | $5.31B     |
| Float         | 25M sh      |
| RS vs SPY     | +0.9%       |
| 52W Hi Prox   | 85%         |
| Base Tight    | 1.73        |
| Vol vs Avg    | 1.94x       |
| RS Line Hi    | no          |
| Above 50MA    | -           |
| Fwd P/E       | -           |
| Short %       | -           |
| Days to Cover | -           |
| Inst. Own     | -(data lag) |

| Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Catalyst / Today's Driver                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Intraday earnings reaction (July 30 TODAY), breaking out from a tight 1.73 base at 85% of 52W highs. Forward catalyst: content/event announcements for the Las Vegas Sphere venue, potential partnership or residency deals with major artists, and broader venue utilization data through Q4 2026. The Sphere's ramp is the core thesis driver.              |
| Business & Position                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Sphere Entertainment operates the Sphere venue in Las Vegas, a next-generation immersive entertainment platform with the world's largest LED screen. The company is a category creator in experiential live entertainment, with high fixed costs but significant operating leverage as the venue scales bookings and attracts marquee content.                |
| Factor & Theme                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Exposure to live entertainment recovery, experiential consumer spending, and Las Vegas tourism rebound. Theme momentum is mixed-consumer discretionary is weakening, but high-end experiences remain resilient. The Sphere's novelty and scarcity create pricing power, offsetting macro sensitivity.                                                         |
| Breakout Signal                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Close above $148.33 on vol >194% of 20d avg                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Institutional                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Volume at 1.94x and tight 1.73 base indicate accumulation into the print. Small float (24.6M) amplifies volatility and potential squeeze dynamics. No recent insider buying is notable-management has not been buying into this setup. The earnings TODAY creates binary risk, but the base quality suggests positioning ahead of the print was constructive. |
| Earnings                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Earnings Today                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Earnings Context                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Earnings TODAY (July 30, 2026). Consensus expectations likely center on Sphere venue utilization, content pipeline, and path to profitability. The pre-earnings base and 5.82% intraday move suggest the market is pricing in a constructive print or guidance raise.                                                                                         |
| Key Risk                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Thesis invalid on a close back below $140.00 (the approximate base breakout level, -5.6% below current), or on disappointing venue utilization, content delays, or widening losses at the July 30 print. Binary event risk is HIGH today given earnings in progress.                                                                                         |
| Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Tight 1.73 base and prox_52w 85 create technical quality, but the +0.9% RS vs SPY is barely positive and RS line not at new high downgrades from A. The disconfirming evidence: earnings binary is TODAY, making this a live event-risk trade, not a clean breakout with forward runway. Small float is a double-edged sword. Conviction: Low-Medium          |
| Signal: Close above $148.33 on vol >194% of 20d avg                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Vol vs Avg: 1.94x                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

SHOO

Steven Madden, Ltd.

$46.67

+7.53%

RS vs SPY: +21.7%

B STRONG SETUP

$3.4B Cap | 71M Float

Footwear & Accessories | Theme: Consumer Discretionary | 52W Hi: 99% | Base Tight: 2.89 | Vol: 1.6x | RS/SPY: +21.7% | Above 20MA: YES | EARNINGS TODAY

| SETUP METRICS |              |
|---------------|--------------|
| Price         | $46.67      |
| Day Change    | +7.53%       |
| Mkt Cap       | $3.41B      |
| Float         | 71M sh       |
| RS vs SPY     | +21.7%       |
| 52W Hi Prox   | 99%          |
| Base Tight    | 2.89         |
| Vol vs Avg    | 1.6x         |
| RS Line Hi    | no           |
| Above 50MA    | -            |
| Fwd P/E       | -            |
| Short %       | -            |
| Days to Cover | -            |
| Inst. Own     | - (data lag) |

ANALYSIS

CATALYST / TODAY'S DRIVER

Intraday earnings reaction (July 30 TODAY), with stock at 99.1% of 52W highs. The +7.53% move suggests a beat or raised guidance. Forward catalyst: back-to-school sell-through data in August-September, holiday season positioning, and next quarterly print in October 2026. Consumer spending trends will dictate sustainability.

BUSINESS & POSITION

Steven Madden designs and markets branded fashion footwear and accessories for women, men, and children, with a fast-fashion business model leveraging trend replication and asset-light manufacturing. The company is a category leader in affordable fashion footwear, competing on speed-to-market and brand recognition in a fragmented market.

FACTOR & THEME

Consumer discretionary with exposure to fashion retail and back-to-school/holiday spending. The +21.7% 12-week RS suggests the market is rewarding inventory discipline and margin resilience. However, consumer discretionary is a lagging sector in current mixed macro, creating headwind for sustained momentum.

BREAKOUT SIGNAL

Close above $46.67 on vol >160% of 20d avg

INSTITUTIONAL

Volume at 1.6x is modest for a +7.53% earnings gap, suggesting retail participation more than institutional blocks. The 2.89 base_tight is wider than ideal for a VCP setup. No insider buying in last 60 days is a negative signal-management not adding to positions ahead of the print.

EARNINGS

EARNINGS TODAY

EARNINGS CONTEXT

Earnings TODAY (July 30, 2026). The +7.53% move and proximity to 52W highs suggest a beat and/or guidance raise, likely driven by margin expansion or better-than-feared consumer trends. Next earnings approximately late October 2026.

KEY RISK

Thesis invalid on a close back below $43.00 (approximately 8% below current and likely pre-earnings base support), or on any Q3 guidance cut or same-store sales miss at the July 30 print. Consumer discretionary macro headwind is the key risk-any slowdown in spending hits fashion footwear early.

ANALYSIS

Strong +21.7% RS and prox_52w 99.1 create momentum, but earnings binary TODAY, wider 2.89 base, and consumer discretionary sector headwind prevent A-grade. The disconfirming evidence: no insider buying and volume profile suggests retail chase, not institutional positioning. Mixed macro reduces follow-through odds. Conviction: Low-Medium

Signal: Close above $46.67 on vol >160% of 20d avg

Vol vs Avg: 1.6x

| Setup Metrics |              |
|---------------|--------------|
| Price         | $25.18      |
| Day Change    | +4.61%       |
| Mkt Cap       | $3.28B      |
| Float         | 126M sh      |
| RS vs SPY     | +9.0%        |
| 52W Hi Prox   | 99%          |
| Base Tight    | 3.13         |
| Vol vs Avg    | 1.57x        |
| RS Line Hi    | no           |
| Above 50MA    | -            |
| Fwd P/E       | -            |
| Short %       | -            |
| Days to Cover | -            |
| Inst. Own     | - (data lag) |

| Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Catalyst / Today's DriverBreaking out to new 52W highs at 99.2% proximity, riding Financials sector strength (+2.9% vs SPY this week). Forward catalyst: Fed rate policy (any pause or cut impacts NIM), next earnings late October 2026 (91 days out), and potential M&A activity in the regional bank space as consolidation accelerates.                                    |
| Business &amp; PositionProvident Financial Services is a New Jersey-based regional bank providing commercial and consumer banking services, with a focus on small-to-midsize business lending and residential mortgages. It operates in a competitive but consolidating market, benefiting from deposit stability and commercial loan growth in the tri-state area.            |
| Factor &amp; ThemeRegional banking with exposure to net interest margin (NIM) trends, commercial real estate, and small business lending. Financials sector is outperforming (+2.9% vs SPY this week), driven by stabilizing rate expectations and credit quality resilience. Theme momentum is constructive but vulnerable to rate cuts or CRE stress.                        |
| Breakout SignalClose above $25.18 on vol >157% of 20d avg                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| InstitutionalVolume at 1.57x is modest, and the 3.13 base_tight is wider than ideal, suggesting this is more of a sector rotation trade than idiosyncratic strength. No insider buying in last 60 days. Large float (126.2M) reduces squeeze potential. The setup benefits from sector tailwind but lacks accumulation intensity.                                              |
| EarningsEarnings in 91D                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Earnings ContextNext earnings scheduled for late October 2026 (91 days out). Consensus expectations likely focus on NIM stability, loan growth, and credit quality. Regional banks have re-rated on better-than-feared deposit costs and resilient commercial lending.                                                                                                         |
| Key RiskThesis invalid on a close below $24.00 (approximately 5% below current and likely base support), or on any Fed rate cut guidance that compresses NIM expectations, or on material CRE charge-offs. Sector beta is high-any financial sector reversal will take this down.                                                                                             |
| AnalysisFinancials sector strength (+0.5 boost consideration) and prox_52w 99.2 create momentum, but wide 3.13 base, modest volume, and lack of insider buying prevent A-grade. The disconfirming evidence: this is a sector trade with no idiosyncratic catalyst until October earnings (91 days out). Mixed macro and rate sensitivity reduce conviction. Conviction: Medium |
| Signal: Close above $25.18 on vol &gt;157% of 20d avgVol vs Avg: 1.57x                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

