ANALYSIS
CATALYST / TODAY'S DRIVER
Current move driven by what appears to be a significant earnings beat or guidance raise (15%+ single-day surge on 3x volume). Forward catalyst: November 5 earnings print (79 days out) will be the next major re-rating opportunity if operational momentum continues.
BUSINESS & POSITION
Haemonetics is a global healthcare company specializing in blood and plasma supply chain solutions, including automated blood collection, hospital blood management systems, and plasma collection technology. The company holds leadership positions in hemostasis management and transfusion medicine, serving blood banks, hospitals, and plasma collection centers worldwide.
FACTOR & THEME
Healthcare tailwind (+3.6% sector outperformance this week) aligns with broader medical device recovery theme. Plasma collection demand has been rebounding post-pandemic, and hospital capital equipment spending is normalizing after COVID disruptions-both secular supports for HAE's core franchises.
BREAKOUT SIGNAL
Close above $104.42 on vol >299% of 20d avg
INSTITUTIONAL
Volume 2.99x average signals institutional participation in today's breakout, though the float of 44.9M allows for meaningful block accumulation. No insider buying in last 60 days is neutral but not disqualifying for a $4.75B healthcare company where insiders often face longer blackout windows. Institutional ownership data unavailable from this feed; recommend cross-referencing 13F filings for recent positioning changes by growth-oriented healthcare funds.

EARNINGS CONTEXT
Next earnings November 5, 2026. Without access to today's specific print details or consensus estimates, the 15.67% surge on 3x volume strongly suggests a material beat and/or raised guidance. Historical beat pattern and forward estimates would need verification, but the market's violent re-rating implies a positive inflection in fundamentals.
KEY RISK
Thesis invalidated on a close back below $95.00 (approximate pre-breakout base, given 7.11 base_tight suggests a wide consolidation), or any guidance cut or order weakness commentary at the November 5 earnings print.
ANALYSIS
Strongest disconfirming evidence: RS line NOT at new high (rsLineNewHigh=false) and extraordinarily wide base (base_tight 7.11 vs. textbook <2.0) indicate this was a choppy, low-conviction consolidation-not the tight VCP coil that produces durable institutional breakouts. While the 15% gap on 3x volume and proximity to 52W high (98.6) are compelling, the wide base and absent RS confirmation suggest this may be a one-day event-driven pop rather than the start of a sustained trend. The 79-day gap to next earnings is a long catalyst void. Healthcare sector tailwind (+3.6% this week) and massive 78.7-point outperformance vs SPY over 12 weeks are strong positives, but mega-cap leadership regime creates crosswinds for SMID follow-through. Grade held at B due to missing technical confirmation (RS line, tight base) that separates institutional-quality setups from event-driven volatility. Conviction: Medium.
